Section Two:
Assessment of Narrative Report

NOTE 1: If a deficiency is included in the scope of an FE, the program may not be released from reporting on it in Part II of the Annual Report, except by the FE Team.

NOTE 2: Although an area may be marked “satisfied, no further reporting required,” the next visiting team will still make its own assessment of the program’s response to the deficiency in the next Visiting Team Report.

DEFICIENCIES
13.14 Accessibility
The program is clearly working to address this deficiency. Please continue to report on progress and consider including an assessment of student work related to accessibility in the 2012 annual report.

13.23 Building Systems Integration
The program has implemented a number of curriculum changes that will help address this deficiency. The program may consider including an assessment of how these changes have enhanced the program’s focus on systems integration.

CAUSES OF CONCERN
Sustainable Design
The 2011 annual report describes a number of changes to the MArch program that are intended to ensure broad integration of sustainability into the curriculum. The program may consider including an assessment of the outcomes of these changes in the 2012 annual report.

Funding
Despite departmental budget cuts for the past three years, the program has continued to pursue its strategic initiatives related to hiring, equipment acquisition, and space improvement. Please continue to report on how the budget cuts have affected the program and how its efficiencies of operations have enabled it to pursue its strategic objectives.

Facilities
The program is clearly working to address this concern. Please continue to report on progress.

Faculty and Administration
See above (Deficiencies)

Practice and Research
The program has revised its professional practice curriculum and added a new required course that addresses a broad range of practice issues. The program may consider including the syllabus for Arch 571 in the 2012 annual report.

Professional Practice Offerings
A new academic adviser for the MArch program has been hired to address this concern. Please continue to report on progress.
